

The Historie of

And comes not in, ouer-rulde by Prophecies,
I feare the power of Percy is too weake,
To wage an instant tryall with the King.

Sir M. Why, my good Lord, you need not feare,
There is Douglas, and Lord Mortimer,

Arch. No, Mortimer is not there.

Sir M. But there is Mordake, Vernon, L. Harry Percy,
And there is my Lord of Worcester, and a head
Of gallant warriours, noble Gentlemen.

Arch. And so there is, but yet the King hath drawne
The speciall head of all the land together.
The Prince of Wales, Lord John of Lancaster,
The noble Westmerland, and warlike Blunt;
And many moe Coriuales, and deare men
Of estimation, and command in armes.

Sir M. Doubt not my Lord, he shalbe well oppos'd.

Arch. I hope no lesse; yet, needfull 'tis to feare,
And to preuent the worst, Sir Michell, speed:
For if Lord Percy thriue not ere the King
Dismiss his power, he meanes to visit vs,
For he hath heard of our confederacie;
And 'tis but wisdom to make strong against him:
Therefore make haste, I must goe write againe
To other friends, and so farewell, Sir Michell. Exeunt.

Enter the King, Prince of Wales, Lord John of Lancaster, Earle of Westmerland, Sir Walter Blunt, and Falstaffe.

King. How bloodily the Sunne begins to peere,
Aboue yon buskie hill, the day looks pale
At his distemperature.

Prince. The Southerne winde
Doth play the trumpet to his purposes,
And by hollow whistling in the leaues,
Foretels a tempest and a blustering day.

King. Then with the losers let it sympathize,
For nothing can seeme foule to those that winne.

The Trumpet sounds. Enter Worcester.

King. How now my Lord of Worcester? 'tis not well,
That you and I should meet vpon such tearmes,

Henry the Fourth.

As now we meete. You haue deceiude our trust,
And made vs doffe our easie Robes of Peace,
To cruell our old vneasielims in vngentle Steele:
This is not well, my Lord, this is not well.
What say you to it? will you againe vnknit
This churlish knot of all abhorred warre?
And moue in that obedient orbe againe,
Where you did giue a faire and naturall light,
And be no more an exhal'd Meteor,
A prodigie of feare, and a portent
Of broched mischief to the vnborne times?

Wor. Heare mee, my Liege:

For mine owne part, I could be well content
To entertaine the lag-end of my life
With quiet houres: For I protest,
I haue not sought the day of this dislike.

King. You haue not sought it: how comes it th

Fal. Rebellion lay in his way, and he found it.

Prince. Peace, Chewet peace.

Wor. It please your Maiesty to turne your looke
Off fauour, from my selfe, and all our House;
And yet I must remember you my Lord:
We were the first and dearest of your friends,
For you, my Staffe of office did I breake,
In Richards time, and posted day and night,
To meete you on the way, and kisse your hand,
When yet you were in place, and in account
Nothing so strong and fortunate as I;
It was my selfe, my Brother, and his Sonne,
That brought you home, and boldly did out-date
The danger of the time. You swore to vs,
And you did sweare that Oath at Dancaster,
That you did nothing of purpose gainst the state,
Nor claime no further, then your new false right,
The seate of Gant, Dukedome of Lancaster,
To this, we sweare our ayde: but in short space
It rained downe Fortune showing on your head,
And such a flood of Greatnesse fell on you.
